Session description:

This session will unpack the ‘Object Based News’ and ‘Event Based News’ packages developed by Peel Language Development School, Statewide Speech and Language Service. Educators will learn a new and innovative way to implement news telling in the classroom.

This professional learning has been designed to support participants to:

- develop a greater understanding of the development of oral to written narrative.
- understand the importance of news telling in the development of narratives.
- develop a greater understanding of scaffolding students' abilities to provide differentiated teaching.
- develop a greater understanding of the resources to support news telling in the classroom; both object based and event based.
- develop a greater understanding of screening and observation tools to use for news telling.

Following course completion, you will be added to our Connect Community where you will receive access to an electronic copy of the Object-based Newstelling and Event-based Newstelling packages.
