About the program

Leading School Improvement has been specially designed to help school leaders and leadership teams, to identify, understand and focus on what it is that needs to be improved in your school and how your school can strategically achieve the identified improvements.

The program has a clear focus on you as a leader, in your school, with its unique context and with your specific goals for improvement.

Leading School Improvement draws links between strong leadership, effective school planning, well communicated change management processes, the need for high functioning teams, and the development of a sustainable performance culture.

This program has been developed using the latest educational research on whole school improvement (by Macklin and Zbar) and using the Department's current and future directions as the overarching goals on which you are required to base your improvement planning.

The program introduces four modules and are sequential, cumulative and lay the foundations for improving the performance of schools.

Module 1: Strong leadership that is shared

Module 2: High levels of expectation and efficacy

Module 3: Ensuring a safe and orderly learning environment where every student is known

Module 4: A focus on what matters most
